

Leland Sampson - INST 728J Final Project Proposal

Project Overview

The web is full of proprietary platforms that invite users to create profiles and content. In the professional sphere, the canonical example of a private platform designed to host identity profiles is Linked In. I currently have a profile there that serves as my professional online presence. Some years ago, for the class LBSC 671, I purchased the domain sampson.info (that URL currently points to the class project for that class). For this class, I plan to build a professional looking website to act as my canonical professional online presence using that domain. The overall goal is for this site is to act as a CV.

Site map

- Homepage
- Academic Qualifications and Achievements
- Skills
- Professional Appearances (this page will likely contain the multi-media elements such as photos and/or video)
- Contact Me